global built environment review

The broad themes to be addressed by GBER include the following:

Cities in transitions and the changing factors which affect the built environment.

Roles, performance and limitations of the architects, planners and environmentalists towards sustainable development/environment.

Adaptability or resistance of the people to the changing built environment through the use of popular culture.

Role of politics, dominant culture, ethnicity, religion and consumerism (particularly the role of the MNC's) in shaping the built environment and their impact on people.

Critical analysis of the North-South debates and perspectives of varied built environment documenting similarities, uniqueness or global interdependence.

Notes to Contributors

Global Built Environment Review welcomes original contributions. Articles should be approximately 4000-6000 words, although, GBER provides a forum for shorter pieces not appropriate for full-length articles. Book reviews should be typed on one side of paper, double-spaced with generous margins.

The title page should include the names and full affiliations and addresses of the authors indicating the corresponding author provided on a separate page as manuscripts are refereed anonymously. An abstract of up to 100 words should be provided.

Editorial correspondence, including submissions should be sent to

Dr Tasleem Shakur FRSA,
Director of ICDES,
Edge Hill, St Helens Road,
Ormskirk
Lancashire,
L39 4QP
Email: shakurt@edgehill.ac.uk
Tel/Fax (+44) (0) 1695 584573

Illustrations

Please supply all tables, figures, and plates separately from the main text. Leaving a window/ box clearly indicated in the text so that illustrations can be inserted later.

All copyright should be attained before submission.

Text

All articles should be submitted where possible in electronic format by mail or disc through the post. The articles should be in 'word' or other windows compatible formats such as 'techwriter'.

Style

References should follow the Harvard system. In the body of the text references should be indicated by author surname and date and should appear in an alphabetical list at the end of the paper.
