Research funding 'Think Tanks'

The HRI is hosting monthly 'think tanks' to support the development of health-related research funding applications. This may be a discussion about future funding calls (horizon scanning), building a research team, feedback on outline ideas, or other issues related to research funding and planning. It offers an opportunity for an informal chat with experienced researchers and colleagues from different disciplines – bringing together expertise from a range of perspectives to support research growth.

Think Tanks will take place from 12 - 1pm with attendance in person or via Microsoft Teams (links will be circulated closer to the date). We use a booking system to ensure adequate time for discussion, so please select a date below.
