

Your classification – integrated masters degree

For degrees started in or after September 2016

If you have passed or been condoned in all modules, we will calculate your classification in two ways.

1. Average Percentage Mark (APM)

Your APM is calculated from your Level 5, 6 and 7 modules, using the ratio 20:30:50.

This means:

- Level 5 modules contribute 20% to your classification
- Level 6 modules contribute 30% to your classification
- Level 7 modules contribute 50% to your classification

The lowest mark, to the value of 20 credits, is discarded.

Your APM is classified under the following bands:

APM	Classification band
70-100%	First Class Honours
60-69%	Upper Second Class Honours (2.1)
50-59%	Lower Second Class Honours (2.2)
40-49%	Third Class Honours

For example, an APM of 61% is classified as 2.1

2. Your profile of marks

If you miss a classification using the APM calculation, we will consider you for the higher classification based on your profile of marks, provided you meet the following conditions:

- at least half your credits are in the higher band, and
- at least 60 of these credits are from Level 7, and
- your APM is within 2% of the higher band

Please note:

Award boards have the discretion to condone failure in up to 40 credits across Levels 5 and 6, and 20 credits at Level 7. However this is only applied to non-core modules where the module mark is at least 30% for Levels 5 and 6, and at least 35% for Level 7. Condonement is discretionary, please do not rely on it.
